

2015-2016 New Member Discussion Series

Friday, September 25: “Hindsight: What You Can Learn from My First Year” Recently hired members (representing both classroom faculty and non-classroom faculty) will reflect on their first-year experiences at SCCC, offering advice about how to successfully navigate the first twelve months at our institution. Mildred Green Room, BSC, Ammerman Campus, 11:00-12:15 p.m.

Friday, November 20: “With Pride and (Surprise!) Joy: My Most Meaningful Projects and Endeavors at SCCC” A showcase featuring the accomplishments of our colleagues that intertwine the best of teaching, service, and professional development and scholarship at our institution. Mildred Green Room, BSC, Ammerman Campus, 11:00-12:15 p.m.

Friday, February 19: “Taking Your Show on the Road: How to Participate in Scholarship while Teaching at a Two-Year School” Faculty from various departments and disciplines reflect on finding time for writing, research, and other forms of scholarship at an institution where teaching is the focus. While describing their own personal paths to publication and conference presentations, panelists will offer advice and share resources for new hires looking to balance their day to day duties with professional and scholarly concerns. Mildred Green Room, BSC, Ammerman Campus, 11:00-12:15 p.m.

Friday, April 29: “The Art of the A-Form: What You Can Learn from My First Promotion Cycle” Recently promoted faculty divulge the best and worst aspects of the nearly year-long promotion cycle, from friendly tips about how to organize your service on the A-form to meeting with your campus dean to review your application. This panel aims to present new members with an anecdotal view of what to anticipate when it comes time to apply for the next step (pun intended). To be used as a supplement to the annual Faculty Association Promotion workshop, and not as a substitute. Mildred Green Room, BSC, Ammerman Campus, 11:00-12:15 p.m.
